Nordic Reach is the magazine for those who love Scandinavia. It offers ideas, information, excitement and joy – readers learn how to appreciate life the Scandinavian way!

NORDIC REACH

The award-winning Nordic Reach:

- ... Is the only Nordic-Scandinavian title with general newsstand distribution in the U.S.
- ... Is now sold on newsstands in all Scandinavian countries on a limited-distribution basis through InterPress, PressStop, Stockmann.
- ... Has established a new niche in U.S. lifestyle publishing. (Our reach has been going up 8-11% per year every year since 2004.)
- ... Has established a multi-faceted online presence, which made it ever easier to reach an audience spread 'from sea to shining sea' (albeit more heavily present along the coastal states—both east and west—and in a sector in the Midwest)

NORDIC REACH, the quarterly of Scandinavian culture, is the only magazine focusing on Scandinavian culture and lifestyles with general news stand distribution in North America.

Available

Through subscription, at select stores or news stands, Barnes & Noble, B Dalton, Ubiquity, Milligan News, Armadillo etc. through Newsstand Services, Ingram Periodicals in the U.S. and Canada. In Scandinavia through InterPress, Stockmann and electronically through App Store - Qiozk.

The Reader

Nordic Reach readers can be both trendy and traditional, with a special interest – in Scandinavia and in Scandinavian culture, both abroad and 'at home,' in North America. To stay informed of the happenings in and of the world's foremost design and contemporary living hotspots abroad, specifically in the Nordic countries – Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden and Iceland – is an essential part of life for our readers.

As seasoned travelers, our core readers are as much at home in New York, L.A. or Chicago as they are in one of the Scandinavian capitals, Copenhagen, Helsinki or Stockholm. Quality lifestyle products from Scandinavian brands are rated more important to our readers than buying what's least expensive.

Ask for our regularly scheduled additional mailings for complete circulation data. Databases for the magazine's initial campaigns were collected from sources including alumni organizations and sponsor groups associated with U.S. colleges and universities with a distinct Scandinavian or Nordic history.

Among these sources, well over 65% belong to groups that have graduated after 1978—an attractive age group from any perspective and particularly for durable goods and luxury items.

Scandinavian-Americans are highly assimilated. This makes them even more eager to retain their 'micro-identities.' This potential audience has been overlooked by most, if not all, American and Scandinavian-based goods and service companies. Reason: The lack of a way to reach them. Nordic Reach is the answer.

Some Important Points:

Lifestyle Purchases: Quality lifestyle products from Scandinavian brands are rated more important to Scandinavian-Americans than buying what's least expensive.

Travel: Readers of Nordic Reach travel more frequently to Europe than most other groups. 26% of our readership travels to Scandinavia at least once every year. Nearly two-thirds (65%) have visited Europe at least ten times in their lives.

The Mission

Nordic Reach is the magazine for those who love Scandinavia.

We provide a broad perspective of Scandinavia and Scandinavian culture to an international audience. Nordic Reach informs and entertains a readership that enjoys the Scandinavian lifestyle, design and perspective.

Our Vision

We want to reach the majority of North Americans with an interest in modern-day Scandinavia and become the literary hub for information on Scandinavia and the Scandinavian presence in North America.

Aimed at a global-minded audience living in both North America and Scandinavia, Nordic Reach covers a wide spectrum of topics, from interior decoration, design, architecture and fashion or modern cuisine, to travel, science, music and culture.

Our message is simple:

There's just nothing out there like Nordic Reach

September, 2014:

Readership: 197,000 • Circulation: 88,000 • Subscribed: 83,150
